

Learning and development

Our learning and development program provides our staff with the opportunities to reach their highest potential.-

At Haley & Aldrich, we never stop learning.-

Haley & Aldrich believes in the power of learning. Even more, we believe in equipping our staff with the information and tools they need to be successful. From thoughtfully designed workshops to on-demand training modules, we provide you with the learning opportunities, training, and skills development it takes to become a high-performing, industry-leading expert.-

Our learning and development programs focus on everything from active listening and assertive speaking to setting good goals and maintaining project accountability. The result? Competent, high-performing leaders who balance technical innovation and expertise, with the personal, human-to-human connections — leading to not only better project results, but stronger long-term outcomes for our clients and the communities in which they operate.-

We value technical competence and intelligence. But we also value emotional intelligence and our staff's ability to connect with clients and team members. With in-person, multi-day leadership development workshops that focus on building emotional intelligence, we work with you to develop a solid foundation for your learning and personal growth — including how to work productively with varying communication styles, among other benefits.

Other learning and development programs include:-

Technical excellence program-

From monthly geotech talks to contaminated site management lunch and learns— and many other recurring knowledge-sharing sessions— there are continual opportunities for our staff to grow their technical skillset. Our only requirements are a desire to learn, and a willingness to take advantage of the structured programs.-

Career performance management-

We've developed an in-depth career development guide that includes detailed descriptions and expectations. That way, you always know what it takes to get to the next level. Interested in exploring new opportunities? We support your desire to chart your own path based on your career goals.-

Lean journey pathway

At Haley & Aldrich, continuous improvement is part of our culture. Our Lean Journey Pathway is an applied learning program through which each staff member can build knowledge of Lean principles, and apply those principles in their day-to-day work. This builds the capacity in all staff to problem solve, continually seek better ways of working, and create the highest value for their clients— no matter the industry they work in.-
