News

At brownfields conference, Haley & Aldrich experts will share lessons from successful partnerships

Burlington, Mass., July 29, 2025 — Haley & Aldrich consultants will discuss remediation success stories and more at the National Brownfields Training Conference in Chicago from Aug. 5 through 8.

Haley & Aldrich's experts in grant funding, remediation, and redevelopment strategy will share insights drawn from successful partnerships with municipalities and tribes. "We'll get the chance to empower community leaders and developers with the knowledge to accelerate their revitalization projects," says Sarah Sieloff, an urban planner and brownfields remediation funding consultant. "It's a privilege to be part of a forum where we can exchange ideas and drive meaningful progress together."

Haley & Aldrich staff appearances are listed below.

Topic talk

- Scott Anderson: "Tribal Triumphs: Utilizing State Funding to Satisfy Cleanup Grant Leverage Requirements," Aug. 6, 2-2:15 p.m.

Panel discussions

- Sarah Mass, Gina Plantz: "Considering PFAS Risk in Brownfield Deals," Aug. 8, 9-10 a.m.
- Sarah Sieloff: "Food (Hubs) for Thought and Partnerships for Brownfields Progress in Fresno, California," Aug. 8, 10:15-11:15 a.m.

Roundtable discussions

- Scott Anderson: "From Uncertainty to Opportunity: Developers and Owners Talk Brownfields Strategies" Aug. 7, 2-3 p.m.
- Sarah Sieloff: "The Biggest Bang for the Buck: Leveraging Grant Dollars in Brownfield Redevelopment" Aug. 8, 9-10 a.m.

For more information:
Contact our Media team.