

News

Longtime Haley & Aldrich business leader Lizetta Fennessy named chief operating officer

Burlington, Mass., Apr. 4, 2025 — Haley & Aldrich is pleased to announce that Lizetta Fennessy has been appointed the company's new chief operating officer. Liz will lead all operations for the firm, ensuring the alignment of strategy and innovation to achieve sustainable growth and maintain exceptional client service.

"Over the past five years, Haley & Aldrich has grown significantly due to our focus on supporting clients with their most meaningful projects," said President and Chief Executive Officer Shawn Fiore. "Liz brings experience from across many of our markets, which has given her a broad perspective on our operational challenges and opportunities."

As COO, Liz will work within Haley & Aldrich to provide support and leadership focusing on efficiently, safely, and profitably meeting and exceeding clients' expectations. After starting as a geotechnical engineer and having spent nearly 30 years of her career at Haley & Aldrich, she most recently led a business unit focused on real estate, infrastructure, energy, and many other market sectors, with more than $85 million in net service revenue.

"Haley & Aldrich is viewed as a trusted advisor across many client organizations operating in a range of industries and geographies," said Liz. "I look forward to using my experience with these important clients to guide their future success."

For more information:

Contact our Media team.