

Publication

Community, regulatory, and reclamation considerations for aggregate mines

Aggregates are critical to constructing roads and buildings in our society and are prevalent along the Agua Fria Wash in Arizona. Navigating regulations, managing community interests, and post-mining land use are all critical to a successful mining operation.

In this video, Mining Market Segment Leader Eric Mears from Haley & Aldrich and Senior Research Scientist Mike Conway from the Arizona Geological Survey discuss the considerations for aggregate mining in Arizona.

HALEY ALDRICH