How higher education facilities leaders can rein in runaway costs, ease burdens, & reach goals

- Overwhelmed by snowballing campus facilities challenges?
- Looking for a cross-department approach to address facilities needs?
- Are time, money, and resources wasted on the wrong projects?

This seven-step guide illustrates how Lean – an approach that focuses on increasing value, reducing waste, and respecting people – can shed the walls between silos and optimize facility teams. See how you can help your campus rein in runaway costs, ease burdens, and reach goals.
